

小島 BIRD FREE

Protecting the urban environment

Application of 小島 Bird Free to the underground car park of Dolphin Yard, Hertford, July 2013.

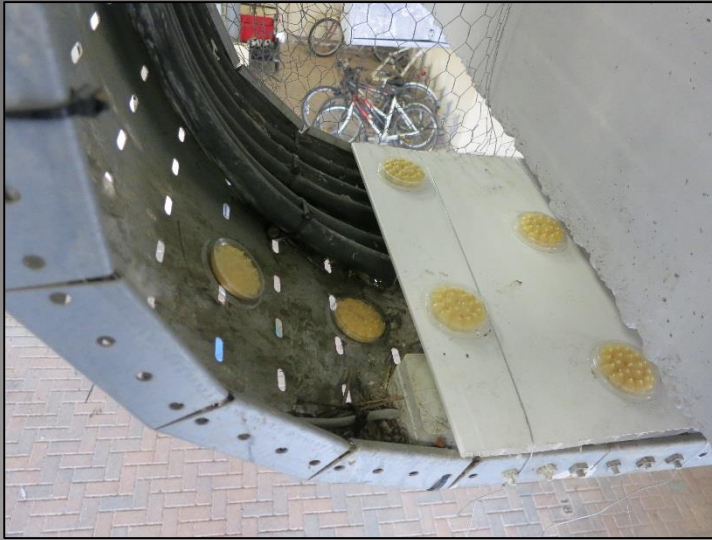

Built in 2010, Dolphin Yard is situated on the banks of the River Lea in the historic county town of Hertford.

The cable trays above the car park of Dolphin Yard had become a nesting site for pigeons.

This had resulted in fouling of the areas below the cable trays. All nests were removed, and the cable trays, and the areas below, were cleaned of all fouling. Soffit board was then fixed to the top of the cable trays (see next page).

Dishes of 小島 Bird Free were applied to all parts of the cable trays from which nests and droppings had been removed.

Testimonial

On 23 August 2013, Brian Wike, a resident of Dolphin Yard who had been seeking a solution to the pigeon problem for some time, commented as follows:

“Since I moved into Dolphin Yard two and a half years ago pigeons had been nesting and roosting on top of the cable trays in our covered parking area. The mess created by the pigeons was quite disgusting: we were constantly having to clean droppings from the enclosed service area below the cable trays, from the floor, and from our cars.

“I can confirm that since Bird Free was applied to the cable trays last month I have seen no sign of pigeons or their mess in the covered parking area. It looks to me like a job well done.”
